TO REPEAL WOMEN'S FRANCHISE.

Vote Expensive in Campaigning.

London, Jan 12—Referring to "An Englishwoman's Love Letters," which is still the literary sensation of the hour and is having an unprecedent of the four and is having is the author of the bill to repeal the law giving women of Kansas the ballot in city and school elections. The town of Beattle in Marshall county is officered by women, from Mayor down. These officials have telegraphed Mrs. Anna Diggs that they are coming to aid in the defeat of the repealing act.

The author of the bill told THE SUN correspondent to-night that the weman vote in Kansas City, Kan., is the most corrupting influence in municipal politics. "I don't mean that the women are corrupt," e said, "but the manipulator is corrupt and the woman vote is easily manipulated. Party organization is not so much to change votes as it is to get out the vote of the party. Men are often absent from home, but women are generally there. A party poll taker finds out where the women reside whose views are in accord with the party. Later a party worker calls to prevail on women to register. Free carriages are sunt for their conveyance.

When election day comes the women dress up and walt for a carriage to take them to the polls. All of this costs money, and the thing is becoming more expensive every year. I believe this Republican Legislature will wipe the law off the statutes." Representative Butler did not mention the fact that in later years the colored women of the cities of Kansas absolutely refuse to register and vote unless they are bauled to the registration office and polling places in carriages. In Topska scores of them have stepped from the washtub or ironing table into carriages and been driven to the polling places by ward workers.

that the well had been drilled in and was flowing the full of the 6-inch casing, at a rate estimated at 15,000 larrels a day. No tankage had been provided, and at the time named the well had not been brought under control and the all was running in a stream into the Sabine kiver.

This well is about 150 miles southeast of the Corsicana fleid in Navarro, country the specific gravity is about 37 degrees. If was reached at a depth of less than 1,000 feet from the surface to the producing formation. Whether or not the well is as large as estimated, its situation makes it of wast importance to the oil Industry of this country. It is on the coast of the Guil of Maxico and will command seaboard shipping facilities such as no other oil development in the United States can secure.

Col. Guifey is regarded as one of the most institle "which atters, in the oil business and has operated over a wider range of country than any other individual operator in the United States. Nine years ago he opened up the southeastern Kansas field, then the Corsiona, Tex., and Colingo, Cal., fields, He became interested in his latest and most important venture in June of last year, when A. F. Lucas of Beaumont, Jefferson county, Tex. arrived in Pittsburg and succeeded in interesting him in some leases he held in Jefferson county. Oil is selling at $1.25 a barrel now.
